

This is a printer friendly version of an article from the Courier-Post
To print this article open the file menu and choose Print.

Back

BUSINESS ATTIRE: Watch your dress when it gets warmer

With summer just around the corner, now's the time to make sure your hemline at work doesn't rise along with the temperatures.

Too much exposed skin is never appropriate at the office, even in warmer weather, said business etiquette expert Mary Crane.

To make sure your summertime dress is more stylish than scandalous, heed the following workplace wardrobe guidelines, Crane said.

Check the culture of your organization; what's acceptable at a hip Internet startup may prove inappropriate at a conservative law firm.

For women, skirts, dresses or shorts should rise no higher than two inches above the knee. Sorry men, nothing above the ankle is acceptable for you.

Plunging necklines have no place in the office, on men or women. The same goes for flip flops. Ladies, you might be able to get away with a strappy sandal.

Published: May 30, 2007 3:10AM